(In the space provided below, please explain in detail the reasons for the delay in filing a proper reply.)

On September 2, 2003, I mailed form PTOL-85 to the USPTO via a USPS first-class mail, however, I was unavoidably delayed in submitting the issue fee of $650 (small entity). I had operated in prudent fashion, and had full and reasonable expectation to be able to provide the issue fee, with the PTOL-85, by or before Sept. 2, 2003. As I did not have savings, checking, cash, or credit funds available, I decided to sell my car. I responded to a newspaper ad, 8/16/03, of a major local car dealer, which stated they bought used autos. I went there that date, to sell my car to them, and after they appraised it, they offered me $3,700 for it. They sold me a new car, whereby rebates comprised the down payment, with GMAC as lienholder. They gave me a Due Bill, confirming they owed me $3,700. On 8/16/03, I left the dealership in my new car, having given them my old car. On 8/21/03, I received a thank you note from the dealership confirming my new car purchase. On 8/25/03, in phone call to the dealership, I was told my check for $3,700 was ready and to come in for it on 8/26/03. On 8/26/03, I went there for my check, but instead, once I arrived, the dealer seized my new car, unilaterally rescinded the agreement, and gave me my old car back (without my check). The dealer's stated reason for this reversal was that financing for the new vehicle could not be obtained. I should have been able to rely on this well-established dealership to perform according to the bilaterally executed agreement on 8/16/03. I was not provided, as is required by Calif. law, a written 5-day notice if any problem arose in their maintaining the agreement. Further, they held my old car, and title and registration, throughout that period, and hence, I was unable and unaware to sell my car elsewhere. On Sept. 4, 2003, I sold my car for $3,500, and, after depositing those funds on my checking account, 9/5/03, I promptly provide you my unavoidably delayed issue fee of $650 (small entity status).

(Please attach additional sheets if additional space is needed.)
